(BULLETIN)

GIBRALTAR, April 27.—(INS)—The 1,000-ton British munitions ship Bedenham blew up with a tremendous roar at the Gibraltar Naval Base today and sent thousands of persons rushing for air raid shelters on the famed "Rock."

Scores of persons—possibly as many as a hundred—were injured but there were no immediate reports of deaths and the entire 26-man crew of the Bedenham escaped. Only one crew member was injured.

Intense Confusion

The intense confusion prevailing immediately after the thunderous blast made an exact check-up of casualties impossible.

A series of major and minor explosions following the initial blast, precipitating the rush of civilians to air raid shelters and the safety of concrete buildings. Pieces of the shattered ship clattered into the main streets of Gibraltar three-quarters of a mile from the wharf area.

Small fires started on board nearby ships at flaming debris from the Bedenham flew through a dense cloud of smoke that blotted out the sun at Gibraltar and the adjacent Spanish town of La Linea.

Hundreds of Spaniards from La Linea and elsewhere who have relatives employed at the naval base surged to the frontier line but were forbidden to cross into the military compound.

Many Buildings Damaged

Hardly a building in the harbor area escaped damage. Hundreds of windows were smashed. The famous Rock hotel, mecca of tourists visiting the principal British Moving companies have a backlog of orders to move folks, while utility companies are busy in their work of getting ready to transfer various utilities.

Local motorists traveling in the Ellwood City section, have discovered that Ellwood police are seeking to catch motorists exceeding the legal speed limit. White lines have been painted on the street, and radio telephones are in use by the officers to check the rate of speed of the fast moving cars, it is said.

Churchill Postpones Visit To Philadelphia, May 8

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(INS)—President Harold E. Stassen of the University of Pennsylvania announced today that Winston Churchill has been forced to postpone his scheduled visit to Philadelphia on May 8.

The former prime minister was to have addressed the bicentenary of the university library. In a cablegram to Stassen, Churchill explained:

"Since our arrangements were made, events have happened which make it difficult for me to fulfill the engagement now. I hope therefore you will allow me to postpone for a while my visit to Philadelphia to which I look forward keenly."

"Widespread Disappointment"
Stassen sent a return cable to Churchill expressing "widespread disappointment," and said the bi-centennial convocation will be deferred.

"The widespread disappointment will be largely overcome by the keen anticipation that at an appropriate future hour you will present your views which will be a source of inspiration to the people of America and of the world," he said.

While Churchill did not explain the "events" which forced his postponement, it was believed that the current cabinet crisis in Prime Minister Clement Attlee's labor government was responsible.

Gen. MacArthur Goes Back To Old Hometown

Makes Journey To Milwaukee From Chicago By Auto

(Bulletin)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 27 (INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur "rode" home today in a triumphal, 100-mile motor tour from Chicago to Milwaukee.

All along the route to Milwaukee, the "hometown" that he has not seen in 39 years, he was greeted by cheers from thousands of persons.

CHICAGO, April 27.—(INS)—General Douglas MacArthur early today left Chicago—the city that gave him the mightiest reception the Midwest has ever seen—for his first visit to his hometown of Milwaukee in 39 years.

Cheering crowds of early-rising Chicagoans were gathered outside the general's downtown hotel when the former Far Eastern commander and his family set off by automobile (at 8:33 a.m. EST) on the 100-mile trip.

Many shouted, "You tell 'em, Mac"—a reference to MacArthur's fighting Soldier Field speech last

Let Contract For Route 18 Fill Material

Platt and Craig of New Castle, a contracting firm, was the official low bidder for fill material to be used on the sunken highway section along route 18, four miles south of the city, A. A. Martin, county highway superintendent, announced today.

The contract, which calls for 12,000 tons of slag to fill in the depression, was awarded at 10 a. m. today to the local firm. Delivery of the material to the site of the highway depression will start either Saturday or Monday.

Upon delivery of the material, the maintenance forces of the local highway department will proceed to build a new highway over the portion, which is nearly 500 feet in length. If the construction work proves satisfactory and the road does not sink further, traffic should be traveling over the highway within a few weeks time.

Gen. MacArthur Demands Halt In Korea Slaughter

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, April 27.—General MacArthur demanded last night in a speech climaxing a triumphal tour cheered by three and a half million persons that the administration take "realistic steps" in Korea to halt "this slaughter of American sons."

The deposed United Nations supreme commander brought more than 50,000 Chicagoans to their feet in Soldier Field with a sharp insistence for "peace through victory" to supplant a "policy vacuum heretofore unknown to war."

The five-star general speaking after receiving a roaring tribute in the biggest celebration Chicago ever saw, declared then in a dramatic postscript to his now-famous "old soldiers never died" utterance that he will continue as "an American" to advocate a "positive" Korean policy "as long as God gives me the power to fight."

"What Is Our Policy?"

Speaking from a spotlighted platform in the huge lakefront amphitheater he demanded "what is our policy in Korea?" and added: "Our losses there in ratio to men committed already have reached staggering proportions" and are "mounting by thousands each month."

"It is this steady increase that arouses in the mothers and fathers of America's sons such understandable anguish and uncertainty."

"It is in this situation of complete unreality that while meticulously implementing the directive given me, I have strongly urged the need for a positive policy atuned to the military realities and

U.N. Forces Are Back To 10 Miles North Of Seoul

Exodus Of Civilians From Seoul Again Getting Under Way

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, April 28.—(Saturday)—A powerful Chinese flanking drive spearheaded by mass suicide charges forced United Nations defenders back to a line 10 miles north of Seoul Friday, and civilians were ordered anew to evacuate the South Korean capital.

Sixty-five miles northeast of tottering Seoul other spearheads of a 300,000-man Red invasion army forced Allied abandonment of Yangju, last population center north of the 38th Parallel which had remained in UN hands.

Front dispatches said hundreds of "hopped-up" Chinese, screaming "Kill GIs" in high-pitched pidgin English, broke through American lines, overrunning one company, but were hurled back and scattered northwest of Seoul.

Third Evacuation Order

In the west, hard-fighting Allied evacuation of the city since the war began last June was issued by President Syngman Rhee's cabinet from its emergency capital of Pusan on Korea's southeast coast.

Five high officials of the Korean republic's government flew from Pusan to Seoul to supervise the removal of an estimated 400,000 residents in an exodus which already had begun before the formal evacuation decree was issued.

Despite Seoul's growing new peril, the spring offensive by a 400,000-man Red assault army was slowed Friday along the 110-mile battlefield.

In the west, hard-fighting Allied troops apparently abandoned the northern gateway hub of Uijongbu, 11 miles above Seoul, because of a strong Chinese flanking thrust.

However, spearheads of 300,000 Reds attacking on the west front were unable to carve out any further advances.

Fury of Attack Decreasing

Similarly, fresh efforts by units of a 100,000-man Chinese force on the central front to break through to the important Chunchon-Kap-yong-Seoul highway were hurled back, with several new losses to the foe.

The U.S. Eighth Army declared in its Friday night communique that the fury of the invaders' onslaughts, both the west and central sectors was "decreasing."

The bulletin said UN troops, waging "stubborn delaying" battles, continued to exact a "heavy toll" of the Reds who had already suffered more than 36,000 casualties in the first four days of their offensive.

Below enemy-captured Munsan, the communique related, the Chinese smashed anew Friday against the front and flanks of UN forces defending the northwest ap-

Evacuation Of Seoul Ordered, By Civilians

(BULLETIN)

PUSAN, Korea, April 27.—(INS)—The Republic of Korea's government tonight ordered all civilians to evacuate Seoul in the face of the new Communist danger approaching the ancient capital.

The formal order was issued by President Syngman Rhee's cabinet from its emergency capital of Pusan on Korea's southeast coast.

It came as some 400,000 residents of Seoul already had begun the third civilian evacuation of the capital since late last June when the North Korean Red invaders drove upon the city.

Following Seoul's second liberation by United Nations troops in March, 230,000 residents of the war-blasted capital returned to their homes there. Normally, the city's population has totalled more than a million.

Choi Chang Soon, vice minister of social affairs, and four other high officials of the ROK government flew from Pusan to Seoul today to supervise the officially ordered evacuation.

Those pliers you lost in the early fall, and you thought somebody had stolen, you'll probably find in the old back yard when the spring chores get a-rolling. For out in the weeds and beneath the hedge there's clothespins and paint cans and such, just where you tossed them back there in the fall. Do you store all those things, not much. The mover is rust, the sledge the same, and the rake is begrimed with the dirt, and next the garage you will probably find the studs for your full evening shirt. Oh, spring is the time when you find lots of things that are hidden out there in the hay, none of them lost but all were misplaced—it's bright, sixty-seven today.

Maj. Gen. Willoughby Ordered To Return To U.S. From Japan

This led to speculation that Willoughby was being relieved of his duties, but top authorities in Washington denied it.

designed to stop through strength this slaughter of American sons."

MacArthur, interrupted constantly by roars of applause, added: "The tragedy is that since the advent of the war with Red China there has been no definition of the political policy which would provide a solution for the new problems created thereby. This has resulted in a policy vacuum heretofore unknown in war."

Continue To Fight

The former Far Eastern commander pledged in a tone of subdued fervor: "I shall continue to fight against that greatest scourge of mankind, Communism, as long as God gives me the power to fight. I shall work with you in the discharge of our common responsibilities of citizenship to the end that American policy be based upon the thoughts and the needs and the aspirations of the American people, unyielding to undue and exaggerated political pressures from abroad."

"I shall stand with you for an America rededicated to those sacred and immutable ideas and concepts which guided our forefathers when drawing the design of America's freedom. For although without command, authority or responsibility, I still proudly possess what is to me the greatest of all honors and distinctions. I am an American."

In the 12-minute speech that climaxed a triumphal tour of the nation's second largest city, he lashed out by implication at the administration, the United Nations, and at "nations with but token forces" in Korea for proposing a "campaign of attrition."

world. He shipped out to sea as a sailor and for several years roamed the seven seas in search of adventure.

Returning to Essen, Germany, he took up the trade of pattern maker, but in 1901 decided the United States of America was the place for him.

Skilled in his trade he had no difficulty in getting a job in the new world and for a time worked in the foundry of a stove company in St. Louis. Later he worked in Cincinnati, O., Newark, N. J., and in 1912 came to New Castle, just 11 years after the American Car and Ship Hardware company had started.

Brass Foundry

In those days the plant was known as the brass foundry, a small plant engaged in plating hardware and other metals. P. J. Flaherty, who had come to New Castle in 1908 saw a future for bushings and bearings for the automotive industry and about the time of the first World War started manufacturing bronze sleeve type bearings.

As the plant expanded "Pop" Brundert's importance to the company grew and his department kept growing. Every pattern produced by Johnson Bronze has been under Pop's supervision, and the almost unbelievably close tolerances of Johnson bearings are possible because of the infinite care that goes into the making of the patterns.

Pattern making has been the major interest in Pop's life for nearly forty years, but his avocation has been designing and producing bronze novelties.

In many homes in New Castle and over the United States are the evidences of his artistry. The Dachshund dog, bookends, the Minute Man ash tray, the Dancing Girl, the Moulder, the Pelican, these are but a few of the beautiful novelties he has turned out.

He retires today but only from the Johnson Bronze company. In his home in Shenango township he has a small foundry where he designs and produces name plates, and novelties of all kinds. From now on he will devote all of his time to this work.

If ever an employee left the Johnson Bronze company with the affection of his fellow employees it is Pop Brundert. He leaves today with the warm wishes of the entire plant and those of his thousands of friends in the county.

PRISON TERM IMPOSED IN NUMBERS CASE

telephone numbers D'Agostino had on him when he was arrested April 11.

They included Frank Fitchit of Youngstown, who Klebe said had been characterized by Police Chief Allen of Youngstown as the biggest "bug" operator in Youngstown dealing with out of town writers.

The Tasty Lunch of Youngstown, which Klebe said was owned by Fitchit and was a numbers station in Youngstown.

Frank Walley, formerly of New Castle, who Klebe said is a "known numbers racketeer" in Youngstown.

Tony Flagg said to be John Catzian, who was arrested for numbers in New Castle in 1950 but posted a forfeit in the mayor's office.

Mose, of Girard, O., who Klebe said had the Girard headquarters for the Fitchit numbers bank.

Odd Coincidence

"It seems rather an odd coincidence that all of these customers should be in the numbers racket," said Judge Braham. "I want these Youngstown people to understand that New Castle is not to be a province of the Youngstown underworld. It seems that in Youngstown some people are more afraid of the racketeers than they are of the law."

"I want these characters to keep their filthy money in Youngstown. You are probably the highest one up in the chain that we will get over here and you will have to suffer the consequences." The sentence was then imposed.

D'Agostino was arrested April 11 on Route 224 outside of New Castle on his way back to Youngstown. Under the front fender he had a gallon can soldered to the fender and in this can was a host of numbers showing a play of $676. On his person he carried over $700 in cash.

This was the saltiest sentence ever meted out to a number racketeer from the Lawrence County bench.

boundary and possible bombings of the Chinese air bases.

Provocation of an air war by Mao Tse-Tung, U.N. informants believe, quickly will lead to tacit approval at Lake Success for carrying the air war into Manchuria.

Silent Agreement

It was pointed out in that connection that long before U.N. forces approached the 38th parallel two months ago, there was silent agreement of letting these go across for the purpose of securing positions and bridgeheads in North Korea. This strategy is paying off exceedingly well in the current Chinese offensive.

In pondering the yardstick by which the beginning of an air war on Mao's part must be judged in Korea, U.N. experts have in mind reports that Russia supposedly has given Red China anywhere from 600 to 3,000 war planes of the bomber and fighter category—including jets.

These air experts are of the opinion that either the above maximum or minimum number would be sufficient to conduct a formidable air war against U.N. forces, although losses might cut short the Chinese war offensive in a week if replacements were unavailable in large quantities.

Some 'Pullbacks'

A Friday night front dispatch said "slight pullbacks" were ordered above Seoul and west of Kapyong, but the Allied ranks were apparently held in tact as the enemy pressure decreased through the day.

The dispatch said three big Red attacks were uncorked northwest, north and northeast of Seoul Friday—the heaviest coming in the area north-northeast of Uijongbu.

West of Kapyong in the west-central sector, the Eighth Army said a powerful new Red attempt to reach and cut the vital Chunchon-Seoul lateral road was repulsed. Field advisers reported the Chinese stopped after savage fighting, much of it hand to hand.

Slight withdrawals also were made by Allied troops Friday in the east-central sector below Hwachon and near Inje, but the Eighth Army's communiqué said there was "no significant loss" of ground there.

A late front dispatch reported that North Korean Communist forces struck heavily twice during the day in the area of Inje which is four miles inside North Korea.

The first onslaught was hurled back after a violent firefight. The second attack was still in progress at a late hour and outcome of the fighting was not yet known.

A target-obscuring haze over wide parts of the front reduced direct air support for the embattled U.N. troops Friday. But the Fifth Air Force said its pilots flew 366 battlefront sorties up to 6 p.m., and knocked out an estimated additional 700 Red soldiers.

In the west, the Chinese were pressing toward Seoul from three directions.

BAIRD SOCIETY HAS STUDY OF 'ASIA'

Members of the Baird Missionary society assembled Wednesday afternoon in Highland United Presbyterian church for their first meeting of the new church year.

MISS MARY GALLO WEDS MICHAEL MISCO

Wearing a gown of lustrous slipper satin, Miss Mary Gallo was a lovely bride for her marriage to Michael Misco in St. Joseph's church Thursday, April 26. Miss Gallo, who resides at 811 McCleary avenue, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Gallo, and Mr. Misco is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Misco, R.D. 4, County Line road.

Vows were repeated by the young couple at 9 a.m. at the nuptial high mass, with Rev. Fr. Cornelius Becker performing the double ring ceremony. Springtime decorations at the altar included standards of white flowers, ferns and lighted candelabra.

Pete Gallo gave his sister in marriage. Her charming gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice and long sleeves which came to points at the wrists. Dainty lace edged the neckline and the train of the gown.

Tea was served by a committee, composed of Mrs. Robert L. Weber, Mrs. Ralph Davis, and Mrs. Fred Bell, aided by Mrs. M. M. Ingham and Mrs. D. L. Buckley.

WOMEN'S SOCIETY HAS SPRING PROGRAM

Upwards of 100 women attended the annual spring "daffodil" luncheon and program sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. A. Culmer Schultz gave the invocation prior to the luncheon. Hugh bouquets of daffodils, jonquils and hyacinths center the long tables, and marking each place were miniature lace doilies and baskets. Members of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the church capably served the meal.

Extending the afternoon welcome to the unusually large attendance was Mrs. Leonard E. Cramer, president of the W. S. of C. S. She acknowledged the new members of the church and then introduced the general chairman of the dinner, Mrs. Ralph Reed. Mrs. Reed worked diligently with her committee to make this luncheon one of the most delightful held this year.

The musical portion of the program was presented when Mrs. Karly Walls, vocalist, sang "Into the Night" and "Don't Talk To Me Of Spring". Edwin Lewis was her accompanist. Both were well received.

Localizing the theme of the afternoon program to meet the needs and demands of the community, a dramatic background for the theme presentation was afforded when a one-act play, "Indictment", was presented preceding an address given by Miss Mary Jane Nord, local policewoman.

Mrs. C. R. Brenner, program chairman, who wrote and directed her state prize winning play, introduced the cast, Marjorie Sheppard, Susan White, Mrs. J. Wesley Post and Mrs. Riley Bolland. An excellent performance was given by the players, as the story unfolded depicting the life of a teenager who was thoroughly neglected by her fun-loving and drinking parents.

The play has been widely used nation-wide in connection with the youth conservation program and is an excellent study of a home with poor environment.

Immediately following, Miss Mary Jane Nord, local policewoman, spoke on the various facts that asserted her conviction that juvenile delinquency grows from parental delinquency. In citing several cases, Miss Nord pointed out that these homes were minus cleanliness, good moral upbringing and good home life. All of these qualities go toward the making of a good teenager. A neglected child usually comes from a broken home, she stated. Often as not liquor and its use plays a heavy role in a disorderly and maladjusted home. Young children cannot thrive in such an environment, she said. The job lies upon the parents to make the home one that the children can receive love, care and affection. This is the only way to keep children from becoming wayward. In her question and answer period that followed the fact was brought out that teen-agers as a rule were not troublesome in New Castle, and this city has a much better average of good behavior than other cities. On this point she commended the parents who have brought this about. She concluded her question by saying that some conditions were alarming, but if parents would become educated as to certain pitfalls juvenile delinquency and parental delinquency will be overcome.

Interesting features during the afternoon included a display of quilts by the Dorcas class, a display of sun suits by Circle No. 2. This group has been working for the George Robinson Home in Puerto, a school operated by the Methodist denomination.

Committees commended for their fine work included: reservations, Mrs. H. B. Ray and Mrs. J. E. Lechner; luncheon, Mrs. James Elmore and Mrs. W. L. Beal; program, Mrs. C. R. Brenner; decorations, Mrs. W. A. Hoffmaster and Mrs. Charles Phillips; booths, Mrs. Walter Fulkerson and Mrs. Ralph Shiner.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Filippone, Keystone Way, Ellwood City, will become the bride of Mr. Weingartner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse G. Weingartner of the New Castle road.

PEOPLE-PACKED PLANET

If the United States seems to be filling up—and it's certain that Americans have less elbow room than they once did—the phenomenon is not exactly unique. So is the world. New statistics gathered by the United Nations (so that's what it has been doing) say that with emphasis.

During the last three decades, according to UN "population experts," the number of human beings on this planet has risen from an estimated 1,834,000,000 to an estimated 2,378,000,000. The total population of the globe rose by an average of approximately 1 per cent a year during that period. If this rate of increase is maintained there will be twice as many people a century from now as there are today.

In the year 2051, then, there may be around 4,750,000,000 individuals on this terrestrial ball—to use what sounds like a most appropriate phrase from an old hymn. That's a lot of humankind. It's fairly obvious that if the earth cannot support its present population in reasonable comfort, tremendous advance will be necessary if it is to feed, house and clothe twice as many people.

Is such an advance possible? Merely to live in the United States is to realize that the world can be made to produce more abundantly than some pessimists can imagine. Americans have made their share of this continent support 150,000,000 people at an unprecedented standard of comfort. Perhaps the miracle can be accomplished.

But future generations will inhabit a more crowded sphere. Those unfettered souls that must have the great open spaces will have only the deserts or the oceans.

TWO-WAY COOPERATION

Former Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas' declaration at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press that the United States needs England—and England needs the United States—to insure the security of both countries against the world menace of communism was made at a time when both parts of his argument are under challenge.

There is a tendency in this country among those who favor a more forthright campaign in Asia to minimize the importance of British strength and British bases in our global measures against communism. There is also a tendency, completely understandable, to become angry with the British for failing to see eye to eye with us on Asiatic issues.

But there is also a challenge to the idea of American-British unity in England. It was summed up by Aneurin Bevan, as he quit the Labor Cabinet, when he spoke for less rearmament and more money for social gains, and denounced his government for simply trailing along with American diplomacy.

If Douglas is right in his assertion that unity between the two English-speaking nations is indispensable, it is equally true that the partnership must work both ways. The British have not always viewed it that way, as is shown by their hasty recognition of Communist China. To maintain the kind of unity that can effectively safeguard our security, the British should leave no room for doubt that they are willing to meet us halfway on issues that could divide us.

AMERICAN COMMUNISTS

Some 43,217 "hard core" Communists in the United States are potential saboteurs in times of stress, warned FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover last week.

Although the party has not issued official membership cards for three years, the most active party leaders are well known to the G-men. Usually, the fellow-travelers and Red sympathizers are counted as ten for each avowed party member. That means that about 500,000 people in the U.S. are ready to do the Kremlin's dirty work.

Some of this number are in the federal agencies, but how many, we do not know. President Truman has padlocked all the official records and documents which would permit Congress to identify and publish the names of the Communists, fellow-travelers, and wobbles within the federal structure.

New York leads the Communist roll call, with 25,575 active members known to the FBI and an estimated 205,000 unknown agents or fellow-travelers. California is next, 4,550 active—mostly in the Los Angeles-Hollywood area—with some 50,000 or more fellow-travelers.

Illinois is the third big nest of communism in the U.S., and Pennsylvania next; New Jersey, Ohio, Washington, Massachusetts, Michigan and Minnesota are the next in order of organized Red strength.

"Membership records no longer exist," Mr. Hoover says. "There has been a rather drastic decentralization in operational command of the party throughout America. They are holding fewer and fewer public meetings. Party clubs which formerly numbered as many as a hundred people, have been broken down into secret groups of four or five. Party orders are passed along by couriers who travel from district to district. Nothing is longer written down."

Congress has been exposing American communism persistently for thirteen years. On the whole, these efforts have been resisted by two presidents. But they are paying off!

April, we read, often is a combination of winter, spring and summer. Makes hash of the weather, eh?

The Stone of Scone has been recovered but Britons are now puzzling whether to leave it in Scotland or return it to London. Yep, the big rock's back—but it's still a weighty problem.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Shows British State Of Mind

Great Britain's preoccupation with international economies almost to the exclusion of other pressing affairs was thrown into high focus today by Herbert Morrison.

The new foreign secretary in the badly-shaken cabinet of Prime Minister Attlee placed the major emphasis upon the economic aspect of world affairs in his address to the American Chamber of Commerce in London.

He—like former Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan who resigned because of the issue—forecast a dire future for the finances, industry, employment and rearmament of the western world unless there is a readjustment in the American arms program to assure a greater flow of raw materials from the United States.

British State of Mind

It is a clear indication of the official British state of mind that virtually every cabinet minister has now chosen to play the role of chancellor of the exchequer.

The man who holds the unenviable position, Hugh Gaiskell, has more or less receded into the background while the other government members set forth their formulas for solution.

Bevan, whose pique over cuts in the British social services was clearly evident in his resignation speech, is a former coalminer and schoolteacher who is known to have aspired to the position of chancellor but whose experience in the vast complexity of economies has been confined to the London county council.

Harold Wilson, who quit as president of the Board of Trade in Bevan's footsteps, is an acknowledged economist of great skill.

Heavy Criticism

But he has been the target of heavy criticism from Conservative circles on the ground he is a university-educated theorist, his mind filled with charts and tables and the history of past performances, but lacking in utilitarian ability to cope with a crisis of the moment.

Morrison has no pretension to experience in the astral realms of international finance and obviously was speaking for Gaiskell in his Chamber of Commerce warning to the United States Treasury.

What it all amounts to, of course, is that Britain has been made more economy-conscious than at any time in her history.

Vast and highly-productive investments are imperilled by hostilities in the Far East.

Huge Losses Threatened

The Iranian government's declared intention to nationalize the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's rich fields threatens huge losses to Britons despite the Shah's promises of a degree of compensation.

Britain, which voluntarily relinquished Marshall Plan aid, has elected to assume the bulk of the expense for rearmament, although Morrison pointedly emphasized that continued American assistance is needed to enable the United Kingdom and the United States to "pull in double harness."

As almost always occur when Britons and Americans began to misunderstand one another, as reminiscent of Alice in Wonderland arise.

British Shipments to Russia There is the fact, for example, that almost at the moment when Morrison was bewailing a shortage of raw material shipments from the United States due to American rearmament, the Colonial office was trying to explain British rubber shipments to Soviet Russia.

Under-Secretary Thomas Cook told the House of Commons in answer to a written question that Malaya and Singapore exported the net inconceivable total of 40,400 tons of rubber to Russia and 120,000 tons to Red China from July, 1950, to March, 1951.

This is not processed rubber in the form of tires, hoses and other instruments of war use, to be sure. But rubber is undoubtedly the tentacles of the British government has its hands full trying to make

And when granted, I say any man should be proud.

Few babies are pleased by the fuss o'er them made.
And of neighbors and friends they are plainly afraid.
They may tickle their chins with their old finger tips.
But the best they will do is to pucker their lips.
Should to hold them a moment one venture to try.
They'll snuggle to mother and start in to cry.

But I won a smile, and so boast I must.
I'm proud to be one that a baby would trust.
I held out my arms, thinking surely he'd cry.
But he smiled, and a happy old fellow was I.
And I thought if a baby will smile with delight,
Notwithstanding my faults, I must still be all right.

State Police Say:

Do you expect to be killed in an automobile accident? Of course you don't. But neither did any of the 1515 who were killed on Pennsylvania's streets and highways last year. There is no doubt that the "it can't happen to me attitude" has been responsible, at least indirectly, for the death of many persons in automobile accidents. If you are one of those drivers who feel that an accident just couldn't happen to you, you are harboring a very dangerous illusion.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TAKING TOT VISITING AT NIGHT

As anybody knows, the infant and young child is less exposed to diseases and can learn routine habits better if left at home, especially at night, than if taken with the parents almost anywhere they go. Usually, too, the youngster under four or five is harder to manage while being taken about away from home.

On the other hand, it is not always easy for the young parents to find a competent baby sitter and they do need to get away from home for recreation, preferably together. Too, the youngsters may gain something from being with their parents. If he escapes diseases, does not grow over-weary and excited, and gets sufficient sleep, the adaptations, if he makes them well, can have rather wide educational value.

Six to Twelve Also some children from six to 12 going places with their parents, even at night, may gain something if there grows up good companionship with these parents. They may be able to sleep on the way for the night, and in the home where they are visiting. If there are children to play with in the homes visited, there may be good social gain, especially by those children with few or no normal playmates close to their homes.

In certain years I have observed some growing rural families who go away together rather frequently on evenings, Sundays and holidays. One of these families with two boys under 13 seems particularly companionable and the boys appear to be happy persons and in good community at home and in the community.

Of course, if these older children are taken with their parents to parties and other gatherings only for adults, where things often are said and done unfit for a child to hear and see, the moral harm to these children could be bad. Yet one might infer that these children would be likely to see and hear similar expressions and actions during adult parties at their homes.

A certain young mother writes of her baby, six months of age: "He seldom cries or is annoying. But we take him with us to quite a few places and he is very happy and friendly all the time we are out. When he gets sleepy we put him in his bed and he sleeps comfortably during our visit. He gets the proper amount of rest and isn't bothered by going out and we don't think it hurts him, but my aunt disagrees and thinks we are doing wrong."

Here in part is my personal reply: "It's your baby. Let your aunt mind her own business. So long as your baby calms down readily and sleeps amply, and is not exposed to children's diseases, your plan may not be so bad. For several months this infant may sleep readily anywhere. But soon thereafter the adult environment will likely prove so interesting and exciting to her that she won't soon get sleepy or be willing to be put to bed when she should go. I trust you have her trained to a rather regular sleeping schedule at home by day and night. Not many little children over eight or ten months of age can be counted on to get sleepy enough to want to go to bed always when they should."

From Me To You

By MESEALL

To be or not to be . . . a critic of juvenile deficiency . . . that is the question . . . should argue or take the problem by surprise and by common sense conquer it.

To offset crime and delinquency, it has been suggested that schools have courses on behavior, how to get along with one another, simple ethics, fair play, emotional control, and a philosophy based on the golden rule . . . and further suggestions recommend that schools teach the young how to spend money intelligently with this reasoning . . . so many people find themselves no better off at $80 a week than they were at $30.

Personally, we think much of the above is so much nonsense . . . we are expecting too much from the schools . . . right now in many cases, schools are so cluttered up with special courses that the students are graduated without adequate knowledge of reading, writing and arithmetic . . . and spelling . . . why half of them have great difficulty with simple words . . . and this fault can't be said to have been the results of the past few years.

There should be some special courses . . . but they should be incidental by-products of established and essential courses . . . Self-discipline, fair play, honesty, industriousness and emotional control come not from special courses but from daily living . . . let the parents assume some of the burden of training their children with the help of private and public institutions such as the YMCA, YWCA, the churches, summer camps and the public playgrounds . . . It's very unfair to blame the schools for everything, or to ask them to do what others . . . parents . . . have plainly failed to do.

Life is changing today . . . home life is different than it was two years ago . . . the family circle is again found . . . if only around the TV screen. Family meetings . . . family parties . . . the foundation for teaching was lost . . . To be found will solve many problems of ours and other nations.

Washington Calling

Major Leak In Documents Battle

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The battle of the documents has begun with the first major leak. The contents of the top secret memorandum on the Truman-MacArthur conference on Wake Island has been disclosed in indirect form but with undoubted authenticity.

This leak came from somewhere in the White House and not from the Pentagon. Top military men were startled and dismayed at the extent of the revelation which included discussion of the line south of the former North Korean capital of Pyongyang where it was hoped last October to stabilize a United Nations line.

Value To Enemy

That information is of value to the enemy. Similar information of value to the communist conspiracy was contained in the messages between the Pentagon and MacArthur made public when the general was dismissed from his commands.

Here is an issue far more important than the question of who was right and when during the past nine months. For it relates directly to the lives of the men now fighting desperately to contain the Chinese communist attack.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

Six hundred newspaper publishers were together in New York all week and none knew all the answers to all our problems . . . That's the difference between a publishers convention and a political convention.

Politicians go to a convention with all the answers, publishers go with all the questions and a good thing it is, too, considering the way a political convention works.

It takes four minutes to nominate a candidate, four months to elect him, four years to wonder what he will do next and forever to live with the results.

And because they constantly report those results, publishers are not always adored by those they publicize.

But for people who never have seen a publisher . . . contrary to some Washington opinion, they do not have horns on their heads.

As some of them were bald, I could see real good and you may take my word for that.

And one of them explains to me why a publisher never wears a toupee . . . He said "in our business we can't afford to pull the wool over anyone's eyes, not even our own."

They Say

WASHINGTON—Defense Mobilization

WASHINGTON—Defense Mobilization Wilson, commenting on new American weapons—"They're going to be fine calling cards for Joe Stalin and his satellites. But I hope we never have to use them. If he could have been there, there would be no fear of an all-out war."

WASHINGTON—Senator Taft of Ohio—"I am sure General MacArthur is well prepared with case for broader operations against Red China when he testifies in Washington on May 3."

MONTREAL—Maurice Chevalier, commenting on the refusal to permit him to enter the United States—"I do not think it is poor Harry Truman. He has plenty of trouble without me."

NEW YORK—Maj Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's chief aide, asked what his own plans are—"I walked the plank with General MacArthur. I am staying with him as long as I can be of service."

Bible Thought

And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years:—Genesis 1:14.

If automobiles had been invented 25 years earlier, it is a question if they could have developed enough power to move their massive engines, due to lack of proper alloy steel.

The Sin Of Omission

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27.—We pray forgiveness not only for the things we do, but also for the things we leave undone—and in that second category, as MacArthur's great speech before Congress fades into memory, lies the makings of a worrisome conscience.

MacArthur arrived at the capital city to find the nation dangerously disunited. He did nothing, said nothing, to heal this gaping wound. He came, he saw and he left behind a wider disunity, a deeper wound and a more dangerous division of opinion, authority and effort. Although he disavowed partisanship, he gave pleasure to nobody except the partisans. He foreswore politics, but his speech did not quell the political furor which is throttling our hopes to present a united front against the enemy. It is not so much the things which MacArthur said as the things he didn't say. It is not that he committed any intemperate assault against the citadel of national leadership. It is that he omitted to bolster those wobbling walls with some of his own strength and fortitude.

Might Help Administration

It would be easy to compose, for instance, a far different peroration to that speech than MacArthur's theatrical fade-out paragraph. His duty, as God gave him the light to see that duty, might well have encompassed an offer to help the Administration which, God knows, needs all the help it can get. Such an offer would not have decreased MacArthur's stature by one cubit. It would have raised him from the size of a popular hero to the fabulous dimensions of a Colossus of patriotism.

It is this sin of omission on MacArthur's part which leaves the nation a little less than perfectly satisfied with his performance.

Those of us who are still tingling with the eloquence of his oration would be tingling all the more if he had unfurled the flag, instead of the Old Soldier's walking papers, there at the end. Those of us who believe that we are stuck with a fumble team in the White House and State Department could have taken heart if MacArthur had offered the continuing use of his service and advice for the cause that we all support—American success and survival.

No Pat Answers Ready

It will not do to say that MacArthur has nothing more to give or that there is no common ground between him and the Administration. The very inconsistencies in his speech suggest that it deal with problems for which no pat answers have been discovered. What are we fighting in Korea—China's nationalistic "lust" for expansion or the "global menace" of Communism? Neither the General nor the Administration seems altogether sure. Both could profit by an exchange of views, a pooling of knowledge and opinion. What makes MacArthur, who was so wrong about the Chinese intervention in 1950, believe that Russia will not intervene in 1951? The Soviet intentions seem to be anybody's guess, but certainly MacArthur's opinions are too valuable to be locked up in either the Republican Policy Committee or in Remington-Rand. And why did a former supreme allied commander speak for half an hour on global policies without mentioning any global allies except those on Formosa, in the Philippines and in demilitarized Japan? MacArthur has been in command of a force which includes the soldiers of 14 nations. If he believes that all or any of the major nations should be written off as allies in the Pacific, he should make his opinions available in the right circles. MacArthur has just finished a five-year stewardship of governing Japan. He would be invaluable as an intimate adviser on the Japanese peace treaty.

Would Be Invaluable

But most of all, MacArthur would be invaluable as a force for rallying the nation's scattered wills and shaken confidence. That is what he conspicuously did not do—or even attempt to do—when he had Congress at his feet and an adoring nation hanging on his words. No man in our history ever had such an opportunity to air his own grievances, state his own views and then to top it all off with a Churchillian call for coalition and a closing of ranks.

But it isn't too late. The stalemate in Korea, even the possible loss of Korea, is not nearly as important as the stalemate at home. MacArthur did not cause this, but maybe he can help to cure it. So far he has not tried.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

While I am not a drinking man and thoroughly disapprove of drunkenness, I do take an occasional cocktail, a glass of wine or a bit of beer.

I do so on my doctor's orders. He quoted a famous physician whose name I forgot, "Anybody who drinks before he is forty is a fool, and anybody who does not drink in moderation after he is forty is a fool."

However, I can take it or leave it, and sometimes go for a week or more without a drop of liquor.

I know that all this is going to make me many enemies, among the dries, but if I can have friends only by being insincere, I don't want them.

The only time I really crave a drink is when I am in a dry state, such as this where I am writing this piece right now.

It is a beautiful state—unquestionably one of the most beautiful in the country—North Carolina.

Right before my eyes are the Blue Ridge mountains. I can almost touch them.

Last evening I saw a sunset that I shall never forget.

But I was tired last evening, dead tired. Winding around these mountains and their hairpin turns for a couple of hours, after dodging trucks that came down those curves at 50 miles an hour, you do feel all in.

If I had been in New York State or Connecticut or California, I might have had a couple of glasses of cold water and a shower and felt refreshed.

But North Carolina is a DRY state—and who wants water in a dry state when he is tired?

Oh, I could have had a glass of beer or a glass of wine—but that isn't what you want when you are tired. That isn't what my doctor meant.

One of the things I couldn't quite understand was why I had seen so many drunken people in this dry state—so many more than you see in a wet one.

Another thing that seemed strange was that so many folks carried big brown bags that apparently held bottles.

Still something else that puzzled me.

Correspondents Are Expelled From Soviet Zone In Austria

(BULLETIN)
VIENNA, April 27.—(INS)—Six Austrian correspondents who were expelled from the Soviet zone of Austria early today did a complete turn-around later and permitted the newsmen to return to the town of Nickelsdorf.

VIENNA, April 27.—(INS)—Six Austrian correspondents for American and British news services were expelled early today from the Soviet zone of Austria.

The correspondents had gone to Nickelsdorf, near the Hungarian frontier, in hopes of interviewing Robert A. Vogeler, United States business executive whose release from imprisonment in Hungary is expected shortly.

The Soviet action gave rise to belief that release of Vogeler, an assistant vice-president of the International Telephone & Telegraph company, may be imminent. No explanation was given to the correspondents who were told shortly after midnight to leave immediately and not to return to the Soviet zone without obtaining prior written permission from Russian headquarters in Vienna.

Publishers Name Cleveland News Man As President

NEW YORK, April 27.—(INS)—Charles F. McCall, general manager of the Cleveland (Ohio) News, was elected president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association at the closing session of its 69th annual convention Thursday.

George C. Biggers, president of the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal, was elected vice-president. J. L. Stackhouse of the Easton (Pa.) Express was re-elected secretary and William L. Fanning of the Westchester County (N.Y.) Newspaper was re-elected treasurer.

McCall was elected for a one-year term. The outgoing president, Edwin S. Friendly of the New York World Telegram and Sun, automatically became a member of the board of directors.

Protest Is Made
By a standing vote the convention unanimously adopted a resolution expressing its shock over the suppression in Argentina of the newspaper La Prensa of Buenos Aires by the Peron regime.

The resolution expressed its "horror at this blow to a free press." It also expressed to Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, editor of La Prensa, the ANPA's admiration and gratitude "for his magnificent fight for a Democratic free press and for those human liberties in which he so firmly believed and for his conspicuous courage in combating the forces of dictatorship."

Civil Air Patrol Plans For Summer

At a meeting of the Civil Air Patrol, held Thursday evening at Deshon Annex, plans for summer activities were discussed. At the meeting it was decided that all future meetings for seniors and staff members will take place on Tuesday evening, starting at 9 o'clock.

Capt. John Dachko, commander, has issued orders that all personnel must wear uniforms. Next Tuesday's meeting will be one of importance and a full attendance is desired of all senior and staff members.

Council-Manager Legislation Appears Sidetracked In State

HARRISBURG, April 27.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce today blamed "formidable opposition" with sidetracking legislative council-manager legislation for third class cities in the state senate.

The legislation was designed to carry into effect the home rule amendment approved by the voters in 1922. A local referendum vote would be required in each case where a change was contemplated.

"We have come to the conclusion," reported director L. P. Fox, "that, unless there is a strong enough surge of public opinion, thus far lacking, to change the viewpoint of numerous senators on the subject, no useful purpose will be served by attempting once again to secure sponsorship of the bill only to see it remain in committee."

The council-manager bill has the support not only of the chamber but of the AFL-Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and the League of Women Voters. It was opposed by the League of Third Class Cities.

Catholic Churches On D.S.T. Sunday

All Catholic churches of Lawrence county will conduct services and celebrate the holy mass on Sunday, April 29, according to daylight savings time.

This announcement was made when the Lawrence County Priest forum recently met for their regular meeting. President is Rev. Fr. C. H. Becker, pastor of St. Joseph's church.

The time of the masses, however, in the various Catholic churches will remain the same.

St. Vitus Guild Conducts Meeting

The Infant Jesus of Prague Guild of St. Vitus church gathered Wednesday in the church hall with president Mrs. Frances Colao in charge.

Important reports were given at the meeting by the various committees. The next meeting is May 23, and plans for the annual baby mass will be made at this time.

Declares Dawson Should Be Called

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(INS)—Testimony linking the name of presidential aide Donald Dawson with the inquiry into federal job-selling in Mississippi today brought a Republican demand for Dawson's appearance before the Hoey senate subcommittee.

The demand came from Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), a subcommittee member, who said that a majority of the other members agreed with him that Dawson should testify "on what part he played in this Mississippi affair."

Chairman Hoey (D-S.C.) threw cold water on the idea with the terse comment: "I don't think I see any occasion to call Dawson at this time." Mundt also demanded that Democratic national chairman William Boyle and his assistant, Robert Moore, be called, but Hoey indicated that only Moore would be summoned.

Dawson has already been "requested" by the senate's Fulbright subcommittee on the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to appear May 10 to answer charges that he was part of an "influence ring".

About three billion dollars is spent each year to educate American children.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—Clifton Webb, who has "always been a success," is in Hollywood for keeps now because film acting permits him to live like a normal human being.

In his current picture, "Mr. Belvedere Blows His Whistle," Webb "borrows" a birth certificate and an identity to prove he is 77 years old and thereby be admitted to an old folks home. Hugh Marlow, as the minister in charge of the home, comments that his new inmate must have lived a healthy, wholesome life to keep so young looking. Webb replies as per script: "I have lived exactly as I chose to live. I have always done what it suited me to do, when I pleased to do it."

Hard Worker

Off-screen Clifton admitted the lines applied to his real life. But no one ever worked harder at doing what it suited him to do.

At 14 Webb was a painter whose first exhibition drew such critical raves as "juvenile art genius." At 17 he made his debut as an operatic singer in the role of Loertes in "Mignon." He mastered 24 operatic roles and then decided to go in for dancing. He became the toast of Broadway and European night clubs.

He drew raves for singing and dancing performances in "Meet the Wife," "Sunny" and "As Thousands Cheer." Then he scored triumphs on the legitimate stage with "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Blithe Spirit" and "Present Laughter."

Bubble Bath

When Darryl Zanuck brought him to Hollywood to portray the rascally columnist in "Laura," Webb says he sat in his bubble bath for the opening scene and decided the cinema was for him. He followed "Laura" with "The Razor's Edge" and "Sitting Pretty" and wound up as one of the 10 top box office stars.

"Yes, I have always done what I pleased when I pleased," Webb admits. "No one has worked harder getting a kick out of life than I have. It has been pleasant and lucrative."

"Film acting has none of the nauseous monotony of playing in a stage hit. I will never go back to the stage or anything else. Hollywood has got me."

A big shot producer approached Webb after his first Hollywood success and suggested that maybe the actor would not be speaking to small-fry now. The icy comment from Webb was:

"My dear man, I have always been a success. One more will not unsettle me."

Better or Worse

It has not either. Webb says his movie career is for better or for worse, but definitely for keeps for a very simple reason:

"It is the only career I have ever had in which I can live like a normal human being. I work from 9 to 6, and maybe a few hours at night rehearsing the next day's lines.

"I can vote when election time comes around—something you cannot count on if you are on the road with a play. I have time to enjoy my home or to travel between pictures. And, most of all, I can go to the theater or movies at night to enjoy a performance instead of giving one. Also, let's face it, no other career has compensated me so handsomely in both fame and a four-figure weekly fortune."

California Wines Gain Popularity

NEW YORK—(INS)—The nation is becoming more and more wine conscious and Americans are showing a strong preference for U. S.-made wines, according to an expert.

Max Sager, eastern manager for Roma Wines and a 17-year veteran in the field, said that California wines were leading the popularity poll for domestic wines.

During the past decade, consumption of California wines has increased more than 80 per cent.

Sager has an explanation for the upswing:

"Americans are buying more California wine because they have learned that wine is easy, economical and enjoyable to serve."

Trade sources disclosed that Americans paid out about $500,000,000 for 140,000,000 gallons of wine during the latest 12-month period for which sales figures are available.

Annual per capita consumption of wine in the United States is about four-fifths of a gallon. However, the American wine drinker still is far behind his French counterpart, who consumes an average 31 gallons each year.

quity will be directed by Chairman Richard Russell (D., Cal.) of the senate armed services committee. The key figure in the senate today, Russell has a calm and judicious temperament. He never resorts to the hot-foot techniques of Chairman Tom Connally of the senate foreign relations committee. One of Russell's warm admirers put it this way:

"Someone in all of this mess has got to protect the interest of the public, itself, and see that those interests are not subordinated to the privilege or personality of any individual. If any one can do that, Dick Russell can."

Perilous Path Ahead

He will have to tread a perilous path with both wisdom and courage. The test will come above all in the interrogation of General MacArthur.

Those who have seen the general privately report, on the basis not so much of what he has said directly as in his attitude and the questions he asks, that he has a deep and grievous sense of having been wronged. This was revealed in part in Major General Courtney Whitney's interview. If the inquiry serves chiefly to stir emotions, then General MacArthur's emotion will predominate since it is so much loftier, grander and fiercer than any of the other passions involved. Some of that emotion was in his speech to congress. But those who have known him through the years realize there is a much higher charge pent up behind the outwardly disciplined exterior of the figure moving with such reserve through the fervor of America's welcome.

Lawmakers To Resume Work

State Legislators To Take Up Multitude Of Bills On Monday

By ED HAUCK

HARRISBURG, April 27.—Lawmakers will return to the state capitol Monday to clean up a backlog of lesser bills hanging on the calendar before tackling major legislation including the income tax.

A flood of bills reported from committees for floor action within the past two weeks has jammed the calendars in both houses.

The Legislature adjourned this week following the death of Mrs. Helene Fine, wife of the governor, who was buried yesterday.

Gov. John S. Fine is expected back at the capitol today, his office reported.

The controversial income tax bill, which passed the House, is being held temporarily in the Senate finance committee until the administration is assured of the necessary 26 votes for passage. Chairman T. Newell Wood (R) Luzerne, indicated the bill would be on the floor within the next two weeks.

Loyalty Oath Bill

Testimony by four college presidents Monday is expected to decide the fate of the disputed loyalty oath bill which is in the House state government committee after passing the Senate 42-7.

Sen. Albert R. Pechan (R) Armstrong, sponsor of the bill, and Rep. Ivan Watkins (R) Schuylkill, will head a joint legislative committee presiding at the hearing. Officials of state veterans organizations also have been invited to express their views on the bill.

The Senate will give final consideration to a House-approved bill providing for construction of an institution to house 600 mental patients. The site and appropriation are not defined.

The House will consider finally a package of three Senate-sponsored bills to provide for an audit of accounts of expenditures of national guard units of political subdivisions.

Senate To Head Debate

The Senate is slated to hear debate on a bill extending for two years the deadline set by the sanitary water board for industries and communities to halt stream pollution by installing sewage treatment plants.

The orders are in line with the clean streams program started in the administration of former Gov. James H. Duff.

The bill, co-sponsored by Republican Senators James Berger, Potter, and George N. Wade, Cumberland, is in position for final passage in the Senate.

The measure reportedly has the support of most of the 60 communities in the Susquehanna river basin currently under board orders to construct plants. At a meeting at Harrisburg last year, spokesmen for many of the towns pleaded that it was financially unfeasible to undertake the projects. Hundreds of industries are under similar orders. One lawmaker, Sen. Samuel G. Neff (D) Lawrence, charged that the bill is a scheme to save construction costs for industries.

The House will consider finally a bill destined to set off a stiff fight. The measure would require new residents and residents coming of age in a political sub-division to register with tax assessors. Failure to report would result in a penalty equal to the tax levied.

AGE QUESTION

LONDON—(INS)—Does a woman age more quickly than a man? London Magistrate E. R. Guest said so emphatically when granting 19-year-old actress Janet Kay permission to marry her 29-year-old sweetheart over her mother's objection that the man was too old. Guest declared: "Everybody knows a difference of 10 years, is not much, because women age more quickly than men, and by middle age the difference is not perceptible."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(INS)—The feminine member of the Federal Communications Commission is waging a personal crusade for

Special Days
Attract FewSpecial Registration
Totals Show Only 226

Only one special registration day remains for the county, and the total registration attracted by the 10 special days held shows almost a total lack of interest.

For each special registration day two employees of the bureau of permanent registration were sent out, and with one exception the result was a "water haul", to use a seafaring expression.

The special registration day in Bessemer produced three Democratic and one Republican registration. Wampum saw seven Republicans and six Democrats registered. Union township was a little better with 27 Republicans and 14 Democrats.

New Wilmington led the league with 45 Republicans and five Democrats, with one non-partisan. Shenango township had three Republicans, one non-partisan and four Democrats. Neshannock township had three Republicans and one Democrat. The seventh ward in New Castle had two Republicans and six Democrats. The sixth ward had 10 Republicans and six Democrats.

The fifth and eighth wards were lowest with only one Democrat registered. Ellwood City had two special days. The first day 22 Republicans and 12 Democrats, the second day 29 Republicans and 17 Democrats.

New Wilmington's high special registration can be attributed to the interest of a candidate. Ellwood City's, low as it is, would have been still lower were it not for the fact that a local option election is to take place in Wayne township on July 24 and this issue brought some out.

In addition to the fact that 24 days time of employees was taken, there was the matter of transportation.

The county commissioners are wondering if the special registration days are a good idea after all.

Today the second ward has a special registration, and the closing one will be in South New Castle Boro.

The last day for registering in the court house will be June 2.

Armed Forces Week Plans Are Well In Hand

Second Annual Observance Will Be Outstanding One

New Castle's second annual Armed Forces Week promises to be the largest patriotic demonstration of the year.

The week-long celebration begins May 13 and will be climaxed by a huge parade Saturday evening, May 19.

General Chairman Howard Lyon met with more than 40 committee heads and workers Thursday night at The Castleton to review commitments and make additional plans for the programs dedicated to the men and women who help make this country free and strong. The theme of this year's Armed Forces week is "Defense For Freedom."

Week-Long Program

The meeting was an enthusiastic one. Each committee head or organization represented reported on positive action already taken.

Briefly, an outline of the activities planned for the week calls for Sunday church services with special sermons and prayer. Throughout the week theatres will show special Armed Forces short subjects, downtown windows will have special displays, a group of speakers will be made available for schools or other groups, the American Legion band will give a concert Thursday evening, May 17, at the Legion Home.

A noonday luncheon of all service groups on Friday afternoon will feature a short talk by a Brigadier General of the United States Army.

The famous Second Army band heads a list of at least eight musical organizations that will participate in the parade. Upwards of ten floats are being prepared for the parade. Marching groups in the procession will include veteran's organizations, labor unions, fraternal orders, active and reserve military organizations, and civilian defense groups.

A dance following the parade is being planned for the younger participants.

Plans are incomplete for several other proposals which include a civilian defense demonstration and school programs. Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will encourage city-wide flag display.

Complete details for each activity of the Armed Forces Week will be announced at a later date.

The next meeting of the committees will be Thursday, May 3, at The Castleton.

Leesburg Youth To Hear Fuller Speaker

Rev. C. Weston Sanders of the Fuller Foundation, Los Angeles, Calif., will be the visiting speaker at the Leesburg Youth for Christ on Saturday evening. The service is at 8 o'clock in the Leesburg Presbyterian church.

Special music will be provided during the meeting by members of the youth organization.

St. Luke A.M.E. On Fast Time

Rev. D. T. McIntosh, pastor of St. Luke A.M.E. Zion church, 119 Elm street, announces that his church will observe fast or summer time starting Sunday. The hours of service will remain the same but starting with Sunday school Sunday morning the new time will be used.

Education Employers Want Is Discussed By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1951, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)
BABSON PARK, Mass., April 27.—I have a conviction that the draft, education and the welfare of our country are inseparable. I wonder if the draft planners in Washington realize how important education is to our survival.

Country Club Colleges
But merely "going to college" does not necessarily mean getting an education. In many cases it means four more years of loafing. No wonder the only institutions which are holding their own in enrollments are Negro colleges—the colored people appreciate education while the white people show an increase of 15.2 per cent for 1950 over 1949. The real reason why some liberal arts colleges are having such a hard time getting students is not due so much to the draft, but to the fact that so many employers don't want young men from the Ivy colleges. This in part explains why enrollments in men's colleges for 1950 were 9.3 per cent below 1949, compared with a drop of only two-tenths of one per cent in women's colleges.

Large universities in the midst of building and expansion programs must now curtail sharply any further outlay. Some liberal arts colleges that cater solely to men may be forced to close for two or more years or after accelerated work. If not heavily endowed, they may close their doors for the last time this coming June unless Uncle Sam soon gives them a helping hand by subsidizing accelerated work.

1951 Enrollment
Too many four-year Ivy colleges are not only wasting a year of students' time and money, but are actually training them to be drones rather than workers. To overcome this handicap, an interesting experiment is to be tried at Eureka, Kan., the center of the U. S. Here a 50 weeks course of 40 hours a week (the same as the young man would work if engaged in industry) will give a student in these 50 weeks all he would get his last year of high school and his first year in college.

To me the best part of the "Eureka plan" is that it trains students to work instead of play. Probably few students will accept the opportunity, but those who do will be in great demand for executive jobs by industry if not drafted, or by the armed forces if drafted. They surely never would be used for cannon fodder.

Education Must Not Be Neglected
General Eisenhower has said: "A nation depending on guns alone for its defense will soon be a corpse in armor." Character and education are our bulwarks against the totalitarian state. Hitler failed because he lacked these fundamentals. Stalin will fail for the same reason. Hitler spent, and Stalin is spending, huge sums for training—not character and educational training—but in teaching men to destroy instead of to construct. This is where the enemy is weak. This is where we can be strong with our good state universities.

Surely Mr. Malik has taught us that the cultural and ideological struggle is every bit as important as military battles in conquering communism. Mr. Vishinsky has said, "We shall conquer the world, not with atom bombs, but with something the Americans cannot produce—namely, propaganda." It ought to be crystal clear, therefore, that we must keep our educational system in the best possible working order if it is to meet this new kind of attack successfully.

Government Aid Justified
Schools and colleges cannot discharge this grave responsibility if they are financially handicapped. Our government should, therefore, seek practical solutions at once which will give us, not only the military strength to survive, but also the guarantee of maintaining our educational system intact. This is the vehicle which is so important to us in this battle of ideas, brains and doctrines. But the government should make sure that the students so helped are taking some form of accelerated education so as to learn to work 50 weeks a year and 40 hours a week.

Green Salad Meal Needs Planning

NEW YORK—(INS)—A tempting green salad goes well with almost any meal. But a good green salad with a well-seasoned dressing doesn't just happen. There are certain rules to follow.

First of all, the leaves have to be crisp and green. And they must be washed clean and any spoiled places trimmed away.

It's always a good idea to do this before you store the greens in the refrigerator. Certain greens—chicory, romaine, lettuce and Chinese cabbage keep their crispness much longer if they're stored in the refrigerator until you're ready to make your salad.

Just before serving, take out the greens and break them into small pieces. Add a little dressing and mix gently until the salad is moistened, but not saturated.

If the greens are broken up and the dressing is added before it's needed, the salad will be soggy when served.

If you like French dressing on your salads, the best are those mixed with fine olive oil. The proportions may vary from the usual two parts of oil to one of vinegar or lemon juice, to five parts of oil if you want a truly French dressing.

Here's how to do it: Season with salt and pepper enough for taste. Add a pinch of dry English mustard and some fresh or dried herbs.

If you use garlic in the preparation, cut the clove in half and put it into the bowl you'll use to mix the dressing.

After about twenty minutes, remove the garlic.

More than a million Americans derive their living from the liquor business.

RUTH STORY

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—The late Babe Ruth is as popular as ever in Japan. This was proved recently when Allied Artists released "The Babe Ruth Story" in Tokyo, Osaka and other key cities in Japan. To make sure all students would have the opportunity to see the life of the former baseball great portrayed on the screen, schools were closed to allow the youngsters to attend. If a child did not have the money for admission, it was given to him by the Educational Section.

Manpower Needs Cited

Labor Secretary Sees Need For About 7,200,000 By Late '52

WASHINGTON, April 27—(INS)—Labor Secretary Tobin announced that the nation will need 7,200,000 men and women for the Armed Forces and for essential defense industry production by the latter part of 1952.

In a prepared statement issued by the Labor Department, Tobin said that 3,200,000 of these people will have to be recruited from outside the present labor force. He explained that the remaining four million persons will have to be taken from civilian industries and from the already thin ranks of the unemployed.

Of the total, between 1,400,000 and 1,500,000 will go into the armed forces. The rest will go into defense industries to boost production of aircraft, tanks, and other weapons and military supplies, both for the U. S. forces and those of allied nations.

Tobin said the overall manpower program had been recommended to him by former Sen. Graham (D) N. C., who is now the Labor Department's Defense Manpower Administrator. He declared it was based on an analysis by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of production forecasts in the last quarterly report of Defense Mobilizer Wilson.

Breaking down the manpower needs, Tobin said the new workers would have to come from these sources:

- 1—1,800,000 through a normal growth in the population and consequently in the labor force.
- 2—1,400,000 from ranks outside the present labor force. This would consist largely of older persons and women, particularly women with grown children.
- 3—600,000 through a reduction in unemployed ranks, already down to a mere job-shifting basis.
- 4—3,400,000 from non-defense industries, many of which are going to have to retrench drastically because the materials they use will be diverted to defense production.

Tobin said, "Our manpower goals during partial mobilization can be attained without manpower controls, through the voluntary cooperation of workers and employers."

Tobin declared, however, that there would be "serious problems" in scattered areas and in particular industries and occupations.

At the close of 1952, Tobin estimated that the nation will have a labor force of 68,400,000, divided as follows: armed forces, 3,500,000; civilians in defense employment, 8,500,000; civilians in non-defense employment, 54,900,000, and unemployed, 1,500,000.

Ice Cream Craze Hits West Coast

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — They brought back the almost lost art of paddling ice cream by hand, improved it by scientific refinements, and started a West Coast craze for rich, calorie-loaded ice cream.

Every swank eatery, including the night spots along Sunset Strip like Ciro's and Beverly Hills establishments like Romanoff's, serve ice cream by the gallon and specialize in elaborate ice cream concoctions.

Will Wright, exclusive supplier of ice cream to these top flight restaurants caters cream that is 25 per cent butterfat. It contains so little air that it weighs almost twice the weight of regular ice cream. Although made in primitive French pots by hand, sensitive controls developed by Minneapolis-Honeywell maintain exacting temperatures to insure uniform quality and flavor of the ice cream.

Creamy specialties range from Ciro's "profitrolle," an éclair filled with ice cream, placed in a deep freeze, then covered with chocolate sauce and whipped cream before serving, to "Strawberry Romanoff." It consists of strawberries doused with hot brandy and several liqueurs, set on fire and poured over rich vanilla ice cream. Obviously a stout head is also required for partaking of some of these modern-day ice cream concoctions.

POLITICS

NEW YORK — (INS) — The president of the New York City League of Women Voters says that political responsibility belongs to women as much as it does to men. Mrs. Ralph Morris believes that women can do much to achieve better government. For one thing, she feels they can train their children to have an understanding and interest in our government.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

BE A GOOD LISTENER

"My chum tells me that I am not a good listener and that I will never realize my ambition for social popularity until I become one. How can I train myself to be a good listener?"

Answer: There are two classes of conversationalist: Those who tell you and those who ask. The latter are the more popular, yet most of us have a strong yen to join the former class. They are fairly bursting to show off the fact that they have visited this place or that, have met such-and-such a great person, have just heard or read thus and thus. So avid is their desire to obtain the floor that they hear nothing being said by someone who has something interesting to relate. They are mentally crouching while lying in wait for a loop-hole in the conversation through which their eloquence can leap.

The latter type relaxes into calm while facing the person who has something really interesting to relate. Her unwavering eyes reflect interest and concentration. She stimulates her entertainer's discourse by asking intelligent questions—"brings her out," in other words. After thus establishing her popularity, she will soon discover that her own opinions are solicited. She must thereafter be careful to limit her dissertations to intervals of about one minute each and thereafter ask someone else for his or her views or experiences. And when she does talk, she should avoid the first person pronoun.

Question: Must I tip a bellboy who pages me in a hotel? If so, how much?

Answer: Yes... from 10 to 25 cents depending upon the hotel.

Body Of Missing Man Found In River

OAKMONT, Pa., April 27—(INS)—Recovery of a body in the Allegheny river at Oakmont last night is believed to have ended the search for a New Kensington restaurant operator who disappeared April 2, only 30 days after his marriage.

The body was tentatively identified as that of Matt Thomas, 60, operator of a restaurant. Identification was made from the wallet, which was found on the body by the crew of a tow-boat under the Oakmont railroad bridge.

Thomas also was known as Matthew Tomazincic.

Austrian Beauty Who Wed American Can't Come Here

By MARVIN STONE
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

BAD GLEICHENBERG, Austria, April 27—An Austrian beauty who married a Chicago chef almost a year ago fretted impatiently over the stroke of bad luck and immigration technicalities which have blocked her hope of joining him in the United States.

Brigitte Hedge, wife of Sam Hedge who won her via trans-Atlantic telephone after a three-year courtship, explained that U. S. immigration authorities have refused her a visa because of a recent illness and heart ailment.

The former beauty queen of Bad Gleichenberg said her doctor feels she is now almost completely recovered but will not be able to qualify for a visa until late next summer.

Tough Going

"We've had tough going," she said, "but we'll make it yet."

Hedge, a twice-wed grandfather from the loop, came to Austria and married the pride of Bad Gleichenberg last June 3.

After the wedding—the biggest the village ever saw—they went on whirlwind honeymoon in Austria, then Hedge caught a ship home. In all, they spent less than a week of married life together.

The plan was for Brigitte to join Hedge in Chicago as soon as a visa could be arranged.

She said:

"The people in this small town don't understand, or they don't want to understand."

She pointed out many townsfolk looked upon her marriage as a "curiosity" because of the difference in their ages. She is 30, Hedge 65.

Would Never Work Out

Some said the marriage never would work out.

"You can't imagine how I suffer from this curiosity," she continued. "Sam takes it easier—he's an American who is used to publicity. He consoles me. Still, everytime I leave the house people ask 'when are you going to the States, Gitta?'

"I keep on telling them the story, but I'm sure no one believes it."

She has quit her job as salesgirl in a bakery—"Sam takes care of all the finances"—and is concentrating on learning English.

She is concerned over what village gossips say, not convinced, despite them, that she'll be using her English in Chicago one day.

Seek Shapely Miss For Godiva Role

COVENTRY, England.—(INS)—Coventry's Festival of Britain committee is searching for a shapely miss to play Lady Godiva and ride through the streets on horseback in the city's pageant on June 23.

Peeping Toms, tourists and local inhabitants are all invited to stand and stare.

The original Lady Godiva, a Saxon girl of the 11th century, rode naked through the streets of Coventry to gain from her husband a remission of the oppressive tolls imposed on his tenants.

The 1951 Godiva must be of "mature age, good appearance, good physique, cultured, and able to ride a horse at walking pace side-saddle."

But pageant master Leonard Turner will provide "flesh colored tights" to cover the 1951 Godiva's embarrassment. Hair styles in this day and age are rather shorter than in the 11th century. Besides Coventry officials doubt they could find the police to handle the crowds pouring into witness the faithful reproduction of the original ride.

This year's Godiva will not necessarily have to be a blonde like her predecessor. Turner also has a wig handy to help the illusion.

What's She Got That You Ain't?

NEW YORK.—(INS)—Redheads are redheads because they have within them an element related to brimstone or hell-fire.

Specifically, what redheads have in their hair that blondes and brunettes lack is a larger content of sulphur or brimstone, according to the research laboratories of Tinkair, the home hair coloring.

Flaming redheads may have a sulphur content as high as eight percent, while the darker auburns or chestnuts may range down to a sulphur content of about four percent or less.

The average persons, whether blonde, brunette or carrot-topped, has about 130,000 individual hairs on his head, the scientists say. But a coarse-haired person may have only 100,000 individual hairs, while one with exceedingly fine hair may have as many as 150,000.

The experts say even fine hair is, contrary to popular opinion, not usually delicate or fragile. Though it may be only about one three-hundredth of an inch in diameter, it can support a dead weight of two to four ounces without breaking. Furthermore, the hair is extremely resistant to most chemical agents, being composed of a substance called keratin after the Greek word for the horns of various animals.

Survey Discloses Accident Drivers

CHICAGO.—(INS)—The driver most likely to have a traffic accident tends to be aggressive, impulsive and intolerant of social or family restrictions on his behavior. These findings are the result of a year-long survey of a large group of industrial drivers by Dr. W. A. Eggert, chief psychologist for the Kemper insurance group.

Eggert's studies also show that only a small group of the drivers cause the majority of the accidents.

Eggert said his study substantiated previous surveys which showed that attitudes of depressiveness, anxiety, indifference, impulsiveness, lack of respect for authority and discipline, immature living habits, and failure to properly assume responsibility are associated with drivers frequently involved in accidents.

The study shows that about four per cent of the drivers surveyed cause nearly one-fifth of the accidents and that slightly more than 12 percent cause 43 per cent of all the accidents in the group. Furthermore, Eggert says, the survey shows that half the drivers caused all the accidents.

HANEY'S

TeeVee Ghosts In Right Spot

LOS ANGELES.—(INS)—Lynn Gordon, Admiral TV serviceman, would like Milton Berle to know that he has for sale, cheap, one slightly-used halloween-type joke that has not yet been used by any of the other television comedians.

Seems Gordon was having trouble finding the proper location for a TV antenna, and mentioned to the new set-owner the frequency of "ghosts"—which are double-images caused by signal interference, as every veteran TV fan knows—in this particular section of town.

"Ghosts," said the owner apprehensively. "Is that because this is so near the Forest Lawn cemetery?"

The human body contains enough phosphorus to make about 2,200 matches.

Westminster Centennial Drive Opens

Dinner Tonight To Mark Opening Of Campaign Drive

Westminster College will launch the New Castle phase of its $1,245,000 Centennial campaign tonight at 6:30 when approximately 250 persons attend a kick-off dinner in the Epworth Methodist church.

Presiding at the meeting will be Dr. J. Calvin Rose, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, general chairman of the local drive.

To Be Speakers

Tonight's program will include a greeting from Mayor John F. Haven, and remarks by former Westminster College President Robert F. Galbreath of New Wilmington, Attorney Mike Wherry of Grove City, and Dr. Will W. Orr, president of the college.

A color slide presentation tracing Westminster's history over the past century will be given by Paul Gamble, executive secretary of the college alumni association.

Others to take part in the program include Roger W. Rowland, chairman of the advance gifts phase of the campaign who will report on the activity of his committee, and Joseph Hopkins, centennial director, who will explain the objectives of the campaign. The college male quartet will provide music at the occasion.

Many Campaigns will climax the efforts of the college to raise funds in connection with its 1952 centennial celebration. Campaigns already have been started in over 20 Ohio and Pennsylvania districts.

More than $500,000 has been raised since the college began its drive in February. Funds received from the drive will be used to construct three new buildings and provide a $100,000 endowment fund.

Two of the proposed buildings already are under construction. A $250,000 field house with a seating capacity of 3,500, is expected to be completed by mid-summer. A men's dormitory is expected to be ready for use by the second term of the next school year.

The third major building project, a new science hall, is in the planning stage. College officials hope to have the building constructed in 1952.

Crime Increase Seen By Hoover

WASHINGTON, April 27—(INS)—During the next 18 months, there's a good chance a major crime will be committed somewhere in the United States.

And during the next 24 hours, nearly 300 persons will be feloniously killed or assaulted, 162 robberies will be committed, 1,100 places will be burglarized and 3,200 thefts will be committed.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover painted this bleak picture of crime in the United States for a house appropriations subcommittee. His testimony was released today.

Crime Rate Increasing
Actually the figures applied to 1949, but Hoover said the crime rate is increasing. During 1949, there were 1,763,290 major crimes in the country.

Hoover also gave the congressional figures comparing crime during the first nine months of 1950 with the first nine months of 1941. The FBI chief said aggravated assaults increased 84 per cent, rape more than 43 per cent, robbery more than 30 per cent, burglary more than 24 per cent and murder more than seven per cent. Another alarming phase of the crime picture Hoover pictured is the part played by youths under 21 years of age.

Hoover said youths under 21 were responsible for 46.2 per cent of all automobile thefts, 31 per cent of the rapes and 28 per cent of the larcenies and robberies.

Kenneth E. Riley Stricken At Camp

Pvt. Riley was inducted into the armed forces five weeks ago, and was stricken about ten days ago.

South Pacific Area Has Polio Epidemic

NEW YORK, April 27—(INS)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said today that a polio epidemic has broken out in Tahiti and it is sending a polio specialist and two iron lungs to the South Pacific Island.

A spokesman for the foundation said an "epidemiologist," Dr. Dorothy M. Horstmann, assistant professor of preventive medicine at Yale University, will leave from Wilmington, Cal.

The foundation said the outbreak is believed to be the first of its kind in the South Pacific area.

A request for assistance came from the French governor of the island who reported "an epidemic of poliomyelitis," with 65 known cases and two deaths so far.

Dr. Horstmann will board the liner Sonoma and is expected to arrive in Tahiti on May 6.

Two members of a University of Southern California tropical research team already stationed on the island will join Dr. Horstmann in the polio investigation. In addition, she will be assisted by the staff of the Institute De Recherches Medicales de L' Oceanie Francelais in Papeete, capital of Tahiti.

Price Control Battle Is Only Starting

PHILADELPHIA, April 27—(INS)—Regional price stabilizer

Victor E. Moore warned today that the battle of price control is "only beginning".

Moore declared that "the real fight is still ahead of us". "The price freeze," he said, "checked the stampede to fill warehouses and pantries and, as a result, we have seen a leveling-off of prices during the past three weeks. But this should not deceive us. It is merely a breather."

PENNEY'S

Reporter Finds Dynamite Purchase Is Unrestricted

If you want to buy a dollar's worth of carboric acid from the druggist you have to be registered, identify yourself and explain what you want to do with it. Maybe you want it for an anti-septic. You might want it to poison some relative. But at least you have to register.

If you want to buy narcotics, you have to get a prescription from a reputable physician.

If you want to buy a revolver you have to get a permit from the chief of police or the sheriff.

But dynamite?

It's a cinch.

Only Need Money To Pay

You can buy a ton of dynamite from a dealer and all you need is the money to pay for it.

Perhaps you want to blow out some stumps. You might want it to blow up a neighbor's house. But you can buy it and the blasting caps and fuses, and no questions asked.

You don't even have to be a citizen.

It wasn't always like that. From 1941 to 1945 the Explosives Act hemmed you in with restrictions and they appear to have been reasonable.

First you had to appear before the prothonotary with a witness. You had to explain what you wanted it for and show some evidence of knowing how to use it. You also had to be a citizen.

Went Off At End of War

Those restrictions went off at the end of the war.

Today responsible dynamite dealers like to have some idea of who is getting the stuff, but this is not necessary. The dealer merely has to have a permit to store the dynamite.

The recent theft of 25 boxes of dynamite from the Vanport Stone company and the resulting vandalism at the Weinschenk greenhouse aroused the curiosity of a News man.

He wanted to know just what you had to do to buy dynamite.

He found out.

All you need is the money to pay for it.

The cigaret-making machine was invented in 1872.

Illegal Entry Of Mexicans Into U.S. Is Near Invasion

WASHINGTON, April 27—(INS)—The illegal entry of Mexicans into the United States today is "comparable to an invasion."

Such was the warning given to a house appropriations subcommittee by deputy immigration commissioner A. R. Mackey in testimony released today.

Mackey said the constant apprehension and expulsion of the Mexicans, most of them farm laborers, has become so burdensome that the border patrol "is powerless to cope with the threat of dangerous types of aliens."

The deputy commissioner said 469,581 persons were apprehended by the border patrol last year—six and a half times as many as in 1945.

New Castle Seen As Cradle Of Gas Motor Car Industry

According to information received from the National Automobile Dealers Association in Washington, D. C., New Castle has a claim to being the cradle of the gasoline motor car industry.

Research by Editor R. E. Anderson of the NADA magazine, discloses that three brothers—John S. Thomas E. and Joseph Connelly—had developed and patented gas motor power for street cars late in the 19th century in New Castle.

Research into the New Castle city directories of those years showed that a Connelly Gas Engine company was in operation in this city at 37 Main street (now South Croton avenue). The company was headed by J. S. Connelly, with C. J. Kirk secretary and treasurer and J. J. Van Winkle superintendent.

According to Mr. Anderson, J. S. Connelly began to operate an experimental gas-engined street car in Brooklyn in 1886. This was followed by an improved model which was placed in operation in Elizabeth, N. J., Chicago next took it up in 1889.

Shops In New Castle
An article from the Railway Journal, Dec., 1892, said:

"A number of motors are also being made by the original Connelly Motor company for the Chicago road at their shops at New Castle, Pa. These works are now being enlarged to accommodate their increased business, and when completed will have the capacity to turn out one finished motor per day."

According to the NADA editor the important thing about all this is that the production at New Castle was part of the foundation stones of the automobile industry.

"Although the product was a street car, it was a gas-engined motor vehicle—the same as the automobile is a gas-engined vehicle. This is a page of automobile history that has been forgotten, which is natural because one ran on tracks and the other on the street or road. Nevertheless the propelling machinery was the same for both."

Here 1890-1896
Mr. Anderson contacted The News, seeking more information about the personal lives of the Connelly brothers. The News was successful in locating the company, with the help of the public library, in the city between the years 1890 and 1896. Before and after those dates no record of the company in the city could be found.

Through Howard M. Kirk, brother of C. J. Kirk, those dates were verified and it was learned that the Connellys were from out of town and came here to produce their gasoline engines.

C. J. Kirk, a local businessman, helped finance the undertaking. According to H. M. Kirk, the company produced gasoline engines for district oil wells, but went out of business shortly after starting the production of street car motors.

Any person having further information on the Connelly company are urged to contact the National Automobile Dealers Association, 1026 17th street, Washington, D. C.

Change Of Venue Will Be Asked For Pittsburgh Trial

PITTSBURGH, April 27.—(INS)—Special State Prosecutor W. Denning Stewart is expected today to ask the Pennsylvania Supreme Court for a change of venue to move the "free work" trial of Pittsburgh City Controller Edward R. Frey to another county.

Stewart said in his petition he will attack the constitutionality of a 1938 statute prohibiting the prosecution from transferring a criminal case to another county.

The prosecutor said he is seeking the change because of tampering with the jury in the original Frey trial which led to a mistrial.

Frey is accused of using city workmen and materials on private projects.

Moles have been known to tunnel as much as 300 feet in one night.

Concert Tonight At Senior High

Under the direction of Willard E. Keen, music supervisor of the New Castle senior high school, the school orchestra and band will present tonight at 8:15, in the senior high auditorium, their annual spring concert.

This is the band that supported the football team last fall with marching and musical drills, and which is now claiming your support for the concert season.

Two of the members, James Stephenson and Donna McMurray, have recently been selected to attend the state orchestra in Philadelphia, whose events are scheduled May 10, 11 and 12. The orchestra will play six numbers, and the band eight.

In the early days of the United States, the census was taken by law marshals.

In The Open

My old friend, the ruffed grouse, labored mightily on his drumming log in the mid-April sunup. I burrowed deeper into the blankets for one last delicious doze despite his determined efforts to drum me out into the bracing mountain air. The fresh morning breeze soured through the hemlocks, crooning an April melody as ancient as the gnarled old trees which called the tune. Just as I was drifting off into relaxed oblivion the tantalizing aroma of coffee and hot cakes floated by.

Already a small army of hip-boated anglers had paraded along before the camp, searching out elusive brook trout in the braving stream which hustled down through the mountain valley. I wolfed enough hot cakes and sausage to see me through the morning, stowed the seine in the car and headed for a brook some miles distant to scoop out a few of the striped minnows which are regarded by these mountain trout as ice cream and cake.

Tough Going
Scooping "bait" is tough going when the runs are high and wild, and when you have no partner in crime to muddy the stream and drive the small fry into the net. I puffed my way back and forth through a quarter-mile stretch. Most of the scoops were dry runs, but now and then a lone "striper" appeared in the catch and when the intermittent sun was well on towards the noon hour I was at long last ready to go fishing.

The wind kept up its steady drumming, singing a peculiar song in the treetops which sounded like a huge transport plane overhead. More than once I found myself looking skyward through the trees, seeking the plane which was not there. The stream had been hard fished and the trout were mostly non-committal, but by three o'clock I had used seven minnows and had seven strikes. Four of these brookies were worth keeping, two went back as too small and the seventh was too smart for me.

Evening Fishing
After a substantial refresher course at the camp, in which pork and sauerkraut played a prominent part, I headed downstream for the evening fishing. The wind had blown itself off elsewhere and most of the fishermen had called it a day. I chose a spot where approaches to the stream are choked by alder and green briar and tall berry canes, parked the car by a burned-out camp and scratched my way through the tangles to the big water. Most fishermen shun these briar-bedecked areas. For every good toss into a promising spot, the angler must be prepared to waste at least three fruitless attempts at a short cast. This always means tangling line, leader and sometimes even the rod tip in the green briar and wild grape tendrils which are always on hand to frustrate the most patient fisherman.

The deer had forced a runaway through the tangles and by crawling on hands and knees I finally was able to make approach to a fast rip which disappeared into a deep pocket beneath an overhanging log. Lying flat, I eased a short section of weighted line down through the rip. The minnow had barely spun its way into the edge of the pocket when a gamy brookie smashed it and I set the hook.

Brought Trout To Creel
By cautious handling I brought the trout to creel, hooked on another minnow and went into the rip again. This time a real fish took hold and came fighting up through the narrow channel and finally into the basket. I was able to stand to fish the next pool, which was nearly hidden by green briar. The bait spun in, a trout took, and on the strike the leader snarled in the briar, "hanging" the trout with his head out, to a snag about a foot above the water.

Just at dusk another good brookie fell for the spinning minnow in a wide roomy pool where

I had clearance to play him properly. I scrambled back to the roadway, pleased with the afternoon's score of eight good trout, and acutely aware of the small stone which had found its way into my right boot. As I neared the car a buck snorted sudden warning and I counted five white tails bounding off into the twilight as he drove his family toward the safety of the trees.

Flight Log Helps Pilot Keep Course

LONDON — (INS) — Britain's planes in the future will be fitted with a Flight Log—a small machine that draws the track of an aircraft on a map so the pilot can instantly see where he is.

A strip map travels across the screen and a small pointer with a colored pen controlled by the radio beam traces the aircraft's track over the map.

Electrical impulses at regular intervals indicate a time scale so the pilot can rapidly check his speed over the route.

Tests have shown that in an area covered by the beams which work the Flight Log the device can be used to navigate an aircraft to within 250 yards of the end of a runway.

The device is simple to operate: A track drawn between two towns on the map by a pilot can be followed by the colored line drawn by the machine when the aircraft is in flight. He will see immediately if he is off course.

New Zoning Law Is Discussed

Features Of Law Aired Before Council

Council met Thursday afternoon in city hall where proposed revision of the new zoning ordinance was discussed. The provisions of the ordinance, which have been approved by the Planning Commission, were explained by Solicitors R. McKinney White and Robert Jamison and C. P. Cella of the Institute of Local and State Government, University of Pennsylvania.

James Foster, local realtor, questioned the advisability of several of the proposed regulations proposed. He said that Croton avenue, in his opinion, should be a local commercialized zone, instead of a C residential zone. He said this applied to all thru thoroughfares and added that unless this was done he anticipated that commercial business would be restricted. He said he believed there should be liberalization along such routes. Mr. Foster also questions the advisability of placing an industrial restriction at Butler avenue and Cascade street. The restriction applies to a strip several hundred feet long where there are homes. He said that immediately to the rear are 30 empty acres which may at some time be required by industry. He was informed council would give these matters serious attention. Attorney Joe Solomon voiced objection, in behalf of property owners, to the zoning law as it applies to a section of Taylor street, where the city tool-house is located. He pointed out the city has sold the tool-house and the purchaser will keep heavy equipment there. He said it is to be a light industrial zone which will affect nearby properties. Council agreed to give the objection consideration. Council To Charge Trailer Camp Here Violates Zoning Law Council voted unanimously Thursday afternoon during a meeting in City Hall to have the city make an information against the operator of a trailer camp in McCleary avenue in which it will be charged that the trailer camp is there in violation of the present zoning law. The information will be prepared by the city legal department and will be served immediately. According to Council, trailer camps are prohibited in a residential district—and after the revised zoning ordinance is passed will be banned throughout the city. The mayor, John F. Haven, told colleagues the city could charge the operator of the camp with violation of the zoning law. Councilman Richard I. Davis said he would vote against the camp. Councilman Joseph F. Medure presented a motion to swear to the information. Councilman E. Gene Schweinsberg seconded it, and it passed unanimously. Attorney Joseph Solomon represented sixth ward objectors to the camp. A score of them attended the meeting and in addresses to Council said trailer camp conditions were not conducive to the well being of the city. Canadian scientists produced a type of wheat grass that had more than 300 miles of roots, although no single root was over seven feet in length.

Opposition Against St. Lawrence Seaway From Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(INS)—Sharply worded opposition to the proposed St. Lawrence seaway was handed Congress today on behalf of Pennsylvania. State Commerce Secretary A. J. Sordani and Mines Secretary Richard Maiez filed official objections with the House public works committee which will hold a final hearing Monday at Washington to allow opponents of the seaway to appear. Sordani flatly accused backers of the multi-billion-dollar waterway with seeking to benefit mid-continent states by opening a waterway for ocean borne traffic between the Atlantic ocean and the Great Lakes. Maiez pointed to the threat to Pennsylvania coal from foreign mines and said manufactured goods from Europe would undersell the American market because of lower wages. There are more than 22,000,000 home-owning families in the United States—nearly twice as many as in 1940.

Marrero Hurls One-Hitter As Senators Down A's 2-1

Home-Run Ball
Mars Perfect
Game For Cuban

Red Sox Trample
Yanks, Phils Win

By HOWARD SIGMUND
(N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 27.—Conrado "Chico" Marrero, a stocky little Cuban who does his talking in Spanish and his pitching for the Washington Senators, established himself today today as a caballero with mucho talent.

Marrero is a big reason why the amazing Senators are tied for the American League leadership.

Hurls One-Hitter
The popular Cuban ranch-owner came within one pitch of making the hall-of-fame last night as he pitched his team to a 2 to 1, one-hit victory over the lowly Philadelphia Athletics.

Brilliant Hurling
Only four games were played in the majors yesterday and three of them were studied with brilliant pitching.

The only contest where pitching was foreign was the donkeybrook between the world champion New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, in which Sox power finally asserted itself.

The Fenway maulers jumped on Tommy Byrne, Allie Reynolds, Bob Porterfield and Tom Morgan for 13 hits and a 13 to 7 win over the Bombers.

Phil Top Brooks
The victory was the first over the Yanks this season for Boston and it snapped a four-game Bomber winning streak.

Philadelphia's champion Phillies topped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 2 to 0 for their fifth straight win and Brooklyn's third straight loss.

The victory raised Philadelphia into a tie for first place with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Leo Durocher benched Eddie Stanky, last year's sparkplug, in an effort to stop the skid of the New York Giants. It failed, however, as the Giants dropped their eighth straight, 3 to 0 to Johnny Sain and the Boston Braves.

This much can be said. The A's at least have a manager now who can get himself thrown out of a ball game after all these years of utterly no activity, whatsoever, either winning or losing or arguing.

The A's on a couple of occasions were the "greatest ball club in the business." On each of those occasions Mr. Mack sold his stars and started fresh. The last time he sold them he wrecked the team permanently and he has never come back.

Meet The Indians

WALTER KOWALSKI, NEW YORK CITY.—Slated to cover the left field pasture for the New Castle Indians this summer, is the big blond slugger Walt Kowalski, one of the players bought from Johnstown during the winter.

Kowalski, 25, has had a varied career in organized baseball starting back in 1946 with Lockport of the Class D Pony league where he hit .250, then in 1947 with Kingston, in the North Atlantic Class C Canadian-American league where he hit .350. In 1949 with New Port News in the Class B Piedmont league hitting .285. In 1950 with Greenville of the Sally league, Lancaster of the Class B Inter-State league and finishing the season at Johnstown (55 games) where he hit .344.

Kowalski, a modest retiring young chap, has not always been an outfielder, he has played third base also, but prefers the outfield. His hobby is photography and TV, having completed two years of TV school in New York City already. He is single. Kowalski at one time was in the Brooklyn farm system. The big boy will prove very popular here with the fans.

Bilo, Green And Ciske Sign Contracts; Push Ticket Sale

Jack Lewis, business manager of the New Castle Indians announced today the signing of contracts by Eugene Bilo, outfielder, Bill Green, second, and Bill Ciske, veteran pitcher by the Indians for the 1951 season.

All of the young men have been working out with the squad under Manager Al Milnar at Flaherty Field, but only yesterday affixed their signatures to contracts, after coming to terms.

New Castle now has the nucleus of a pretty fair ball club under contract. Only Steve Magula is unsigned to date. Bilo and Green are the only two limited service players under contract. There are nine veterans signed.

Push Ticket Sales
Lewis also announced today that the ticket office at Flaherty Field will be open from 11 to 3 p. m. Saturday and Sunday for the sale of opening day tickets and other types of tickets.

All of the Indians officials are working like Trojans to sell at least 3,000 opening day, Sunday, May 6 tickets at $1.00 each.

New Castle is becoming more baseball minded with each passing hour. Baseball was rather dormant here until the Mid-Atlantic came in two years ago. The women of New Castle are fast becoming great baseball fans judging from their patronage last year.

Team Shaping Up Well
Manager Al Milnar took his squad to the field yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock for a three hour drill and today took advantage of the warm sunshine to get in a long workout that started at 10 o'clock.

"We'll be ready for the exhibition game with Jamestown here next Wednesday night, and also the league opener at Butler next Thursday," Milnar said.

Need Pitching Strength
The Indians are in need of more pitching help as Steve Sheronovich, a lefty-rookie, has not reported back to the club since leaving for Youngstown several days ago.

At the moment the pitching duties are in the laps of Bill Ciske, Stan Zedalis, Ben Rossman, Lee Bickel and Joe Miskiewicz. Any young men in the area wanting a tryout with the Indians hurling staff will be welcomed.

Award W. Braham Swimming Trophy At Princeton University

It was announced today by R. Kenneth Fairman, Director of Princeton Athletics, that the War Memorial Trophy, one of the highest honors that can be conferred upon a Princeton athlete, was awarded for the 1951 season to W. Walter Braham Jr., 126 Hazlecroft avenue, New Castle, honor senior in the Department of History.

Braham, a member of the swimming Tiger squad for the past three seasons, has been one of the Tigers' ranking freestylers. James W. Braham, brother of W. Walter, was also awarded a swimming letter, the Princeton three-inch Freshman numeral.

Nick Thiel, Penn State lacrosse coach, is the author of a monthly newsletter which goes to nearly 2,000 lacrosse enthusiasts.

Fete Shenango Athletes At Banquet Ceremonies

Shenango high school athletes were last night honored at banquet ceremonies in the school gymnasium, in a fete attended by approximately 75. School cheerleaders served the turkey dinner.

After Samuel McCullough, faculty member had headed a few minutes of group singing, Edwin Beatty, school principal who served as toastmaster, introduced Harry Reith of station WKST.

Reith extended his congratulations to the Shenango athletes present, which included those of football, basketball, and baseball; and expressed his regret in seeing Eddie Nahas pass from the Shenango coaching scene. Nahas will retire from the coaching field, but will remain as an instructor.

Other guests included Chuck Moser and Bob Jackson of the New Castle News, and Joe Fracul of the City Recreation Board, who was instrumental in securing and readying Deshon baseball field for Shenango baseball play.

Short congratulatory speeches were made by assistant coaches John Susco and Tom Sovesky, and junior high coach Charles Baillik; and school supervisor G. W. Johnston in an address aimed at the athletes stated that success was not measured in the won and lost column, but in the manner in which each game was played.

Present Varsity "S" Coach Eddie Nahas then called off those qualified for the varsity football "S" and who included: four year lettermen—Johnny Allen and Angie Marrone; three year lettermen, Frank Fedor and Fred Duckworth; two year lettermen, Tom Magusiak, Walter Smith, Don Fracul, Tom Adamczyk, Ed Badger and Harry Jermakowicz; and first year men: Fred Alexander, D. Allen, Bill Patterson, Ted Owoc, Joe Proch, Duane Pilch, Stanley Smith, Don Kroesen, Bill Wanasosky and manager Book.

Basketball letters were then awarded: three year letterman, Johnny Allen; two year lettermen, Ed Badger and Angie Marrone; first year men, Bob Feil, Francis McGary, Sam Champ; and manager Jermakowicz.

Following the presentation of the awards, the group then adjourned to a classroom to view fishing, basketball and football films.

Jimmy Dykes says the Athletics, who started the 1950 campaign as theoretical contenders for the title only to drop 47 games off the pace, still need a "good righthanded long ball hitter in the outfield." Otherwise, according to Jimmy, "if the players have the confidence in themselves that I have in them, they'll do all right." His idea of doing "all right" is steering the A's as he did the White Sox.

Scores Of Boys Attend Meeting In Falcon Hall

Several score boys, 6 to 16 years of age, inclusive, assembled in the Polish Falcon auditorium last night where they heard inspiring talks concerning athletics and good citizenship.

The addresses were made by Falcons' president, Adam Psenenny; vice-president, Andy Lasky; treasurer, Dr. Emil Ryglinski; and Attorney Joe Solomon.

The boys agreed to enter into the athletic proclivities of the Falcons, which some years ago, could boast of innumerable top-notch athletes, and athletics teams.

Some of the boys also decided last night to join the Boy Scouts, a branch of which will be sponsored by the Polish Falcons.

The boys enjoyed a motion picture of the Army-Navy game provided by Chief Machinist's Mate Alfred W. Anundson, U. S. Navy recruiter on duty here.

President Psenenny told the boys that the auditorium will be available to the boys every evening at 6:45 p.m. and the next meeting will be held Thursday next.

To Be Taught Athletics
According to Psenenny, Lasky and Dr. Ryglinski the boys will be drilled in all kinds of athletics and over a course of years it is hoped the Falcons will regain their place in the sports world in addition to competing in Falcon athletic carnivals staged throughout the country.

In addition to Psenenny, Lasky and Dr. Ryglinski, other officers are: second vice-president, Irene Cwynar; secretary, Ray Noga; financial secretary, Edward Kendra; trustees, Dr. Emil Ryglinski, Henry Atom, Alex. Snizel, and Stanley Meier. The directorate consists of Guy Jay, Joseph Boron, William Gerli, Henry Kozela, Walter Macios, Gabriel Boron, and Stanley Kelish.

A meeting of the American Legion Junior league was held at the Legion Home Wednesday evening. Six teams were represented, with two more sponsors calling in during the evening to register their teams in the league.

Joe O'Leary opened the meeting, and after a few brief remarks introduced Dale "Lefty" Gibson, who will be in charge of the league as well as the Post team for the 1951 season.

The teams which have registered and will make up the eight-team league are as follows: Sunset, Fees, Ecclesiastics, Biondi, St. Mary, Lepores, Croton and DeCarbo Bombers. The teams were assigned playing fields and the opening date set for Monday, May 21.

Games will be played on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week, bringing the league season to a close on July 13. A Shaughnessy play-off among the first four teams will be held on a best out of three games basis. The two winners will then play a best out of five series to determine the championship.

A trophy will be awarded the winner of the league season's play, one to the team winning the championship and one to the runner-up. It is planned to award a fourth trophy to the boy selected as the most valuable player in the league.

All the men who gave so willingly of their time to umpire in the league last year also asked to watch for the announcement of the next meeting so that an umpires' schedule may be arranged.

The junior class of the Bessemer high school presented its play, "Off A Pewter Platter" to the students of Hillsville and Bessemer on Thursday afternoon.

This comedy was well-received by the group, and the second performance will be staged tonight in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Mike Rubino, of Dormont, Pa., brought Penn State runner-up honors at 175 pounds in last year's Eastern wrestling championships.

Charlie Ridenour, freshman wrestling coach at Penn State, defeated only once as an undergraduate grappler.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

PENNSYLVANIA'S popular "Fisherman's Paradise" located on Spring Creek near Bellefonte in Center County will open its gates for the 1951 season on Friday, May 18, and extend over the period to July 21, both dates inclusive, excepting Sundays when the Paradise is closed. Fishing will officially begin at 8:00 a.m., and continue until 8:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

There is no special license required to fish the "Paradise," fishermen sixteen years and over must have a resident fisherman's license and must personally register in and out. Anglers are allowed to visit the project five times during the season and while the thrill of catching big fish will be the order of the day, only one fish may be killed in any single day's visit.

The fisherman is restricted to the use of artificial hair or feather lures with barbless hooks or hooks from which the barb has been removed. Spoons, spinners or swivels are prohibited and wading the stream, for any purpose, is not permitted. Fish caught foul must be returned to the water and assistance in hooking or landing fish is not allowed.

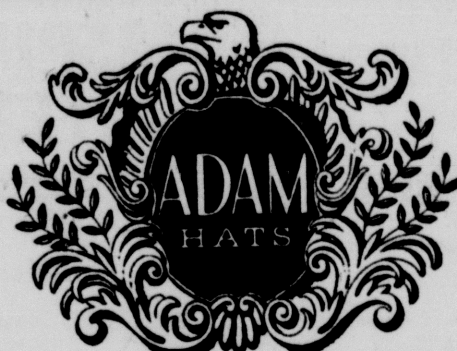

Only fish ten inches or longer taken from the large stream may be killed while the size limit on the adjoining ladies stream is seven inches.

The rules and regulations will be prominently posted and each angler will be given a printed card bearing these regulations.
